Scanner Reports 7-20-15

updated: Jul 20, 2015, 7:00 AM

Roger the Scanner Guy

Monday-Monday. It was nice to get a little rain, even if it was a little rain over the weekend. The Thunder and lightning was exciting too and a little scary sometimes. I jumped a couple of times. I saw the Flash Flood warnings and wished we'd get a little of that but I guess that wasn't in the cards for us. I got friends in the Mid-West that rather have the drought and the heat and some of us would love to have their rain. I'm sure after a while we'd tire of each other's weather. I'm not sure how long it would take Lake Michigan to dry up if the Mid-West had no rain.

I just heard a call at Kids World. I hear them all the time; 415 Domestics, 415 yelling, fighting, code 40's Drunks, urinaters, poopers, indecent exposures, campers. I would never take a kid there, as much that goes on there with kids going there to play there should be someone there to stop things from happening or put Kids World in a safer place for kids. Just my.42 cents on the matter and you might read it again.

Another wayward RVer. This time at the Tunnel Road trailhead. Someone associated with an RV was seen breaking into a vehicle. After being seen, the thief got into an RV with someone else at the wheel and they drove away. As the RV was rumbling South on 101, they must have thought they got away until they passed Santa Claus Lane and picked up a tail; the Santa Barbara Sheriff's Department. "He knows when you've been bad or good, so be good for goodness sake HEY!" The RV was pulled over at Highway 150 and Carpinteria Ave in Carp. Everyone ordered out. 2 left the RV but one refused, so there was a bit of a circus going on there a bit, kinda stupid really, making such a big show of a theft like that. You only dig the hole deeper for yourself putting off the police like that. Roads get closed, or barricaded more police show up, Roger hears it over the scanner, posts it on Edhat. Now you're in a world of scrap, 2 people show up to watch. What were they doing in that RV, planning their escape? Putting on their faces? Contemplating another wacky RV high speed chase? If you're going to commit a crime it might be smart not to use a huge motorhome or an RV as a getaway vehicle. If you're going to do that at least cover the license plate with a little piece of paper. Maybe you'll get away. The 2 guys that ripped off the Gucci bags from Saks did. Of course they were not in a motorhome, they were in a Mercedes.

With all the FREE stuff on Craigslist, why steal anyway? Just drive around pick the free stuff up then find somewhere to have a yard sale. Some of the items on Craigslist FREE this weekend include: Toilet low flow, new toilet seat in the package, clothing, a sandbox, a motorcycle for parts, a makeup mirror, glass cabinet, dog kennel, chairs, oak desk, office chairs pretty red ones, a mattress and 42 bedbugs for pets, or dinner. Pick up all this stuff and find a place to sell it. My Step Dad used to tell me "You wanna make a couple bucks real quick? Put a quarter in the newspaper rack pull out all the papers and sell em on the corner". I never did that. I always wondered if he did. Probably not since he made a lot more money doing other things. I know people are having a hard time out there but it don't give someone the right to violate someone else by stealing from them or any other way just because someone thinks someone else has it better.

I was homeless for a while as a kid, and houseless for a little more time as an adult. I slept in a car for 7 months, and in a boss' shop for 3 years. I don't count those times as homeless I was working then and made good money. If I was not working and in the vehicle it might have been different even then I'd find something to do and somewhere to lay my head and eat even if I had to trade work for it and I have. Some people think scrubbing toilets is beneath them. I went door to door one time scrubbing bathrooms for a dollar. I might have become the Toilet King of Santa Barbara, but I think most people thought I was a pervert. I only made about 8 bucks. But then someone asked me to wash and detail their vehicle and next thing ya know I was making a few hundred dollars a week detailing cars and trucks. It was really funny when a local detail business got wind of it and sent a couple thugs to stop me. They were both much smaller than me plus I was drinking then. As dirty pool goes they called the police on me and reported me for doing business without a license. I had regulars and no one else would snitch me out a lot of dirty business here in Santa Barbara. But one could still make a buck scrubbing a toilet somewhere, or collect a few cans, or eat at the mission. All is not lost. One doesn't have to steal to eat, this is not the great Depression.

All that Thunder and Lightning going around. A few dogs got freaked out and wandered off from their homes. The other day one of those dogs belonged to a friend of mine, Susan, who lives on the West Side. She was really worried about her doggie. The police did a be on the Lookout for it and some of the other dogs that got scared; nice of them. Anyway her dog was found safe and sound and dropped off at Cares Animal Hospital on Haley. I'd like to thank whoever found her doggie for her and turned him in. I don't know the dog's name but he looks kinda like Cameron Crowe, so that's what I call him. Thanks for finding Cameron Crowe for Susan, you Anonymous HERO you. Thank You to Cares Animal Hospital for taking him in and holding onto him too. That's it outta me for now. Have a great Monday. Belinda and Pooh Bear willing, we will see you on Wednesday. Later, Roger
